

HIA Trade Future

“So your business is now starting to pick up? Have you considered training an apprentice for your future business needs? The Australian Government through a range of financial assistance packages is supporting business owners right across the country in making the right decision to take on an apprentice. Whether it is starting a new apprentice, re-engaging a previous apprentice or supporting an adult Australian apprentice, now is the time that you should prepare for the future of your business.

Help is available through the Housing Industry Association to provide free advice. So if you have questions on how to employ an apprentice or what the benefits to your business can be, then give the HIA Trade Future Program a call on 1300 650 634 today.”

HIA apprentices
the best in the business

Supported by the Australian Government